Challenge: Housing, Tracking Needed/Provided Services, and Relocation

As of May 2023, the United States is experiencing ongoing immigration challenges from a sustained influx of individuals and families seeking asylum. Their search for aid and protection and aid from persecution, violence, political instability, and economic hardship in their home countries, has created local shortages in resources in local host communities in the U.S. These shortages cause U.S. cities to seek help from their home or neighboring counties, to find temporary placements for asylum seekers until further accommodations can be made.

A Solution is Needed. Having a partner with data management solutions like BCG is critical. This allows for the efficient organization and management of the significant amount of data involved in supporting a large number of individuals seeking aid. With a proper system in place, personnel can quickly and easily access and report on various situations including: family reunification, housing logistics, services provided, scarce supplies, and staffing shortages: allowing for informed projections and decisions to be made on resource allocation.

Why BCG? BCG has extensive experience helping municipalities build workflows to manage the actively changing Asylum Seeker Mission needs. Designed to support emergency management and response efforts, our solutions make us well-suited to ensure that critical data is organized, accessible, and secure, for more effective outcomes.
